5

10

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention involves a gaming device which can display a plurality of graphical images at any one time. One or more of these graphical images are specified with predetermined sizes relative to a display frame preferably in addition to predetermined Z-levels, movements and other specifications. This type of gaming device provides players with more realistic and enhanced graphics, adding to a player's excitement and entertainment.